

Cristian David Usma Cuervo (crusma_25@hotmail.com)

Cristian during field work in the National Nevados Park, Colombia, 2013.

Master of Science Thesis: Isotope Chemostratigraphy (C, O e Cr) of carbonates and associated BIFs, and petrology of metaluminous granitoids, São José do Belmonte, Pernambuco, northeastern Brazil (advisor: Prof. A.N. Sial)

Geologist (Universidad de Caldas, Colombia, 2011), with experience on geological cartography, resources exploration, well logging, as well as the management of geographic information systems (GIS) and image processing. Currently is a MSc student in the Post-graduation in Geosciences at the Federal University of Pernambuco, Brazil, linked to the Research Group of Geochemical and Stable Isotopes Studies applied to the geosciences led by Prof. A.N. Sial.