

Maria Somália Sales Viana (somalima_viana@hotmail.com)

Doctoral thesis (1999): Estudo paleoambiental na parte Superior da Formação Santana, Cretáceo da Bacia do Araripe, NE do Brasil (co-advisor: Prof. A.N. Sial), Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul

Graduated (Geology) from the Federal University of Ceará (1985), M.Sc. (Geology) from the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (1990) and Doctoral degree (Geosciences) from the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul (1999). During her doctoral work, she has been co-advised by Prof. A. N. Sial on stable isotope geochemistry. She taught Paleontology at the Federal University of Pernambuco (1992-2003) and currently she is an associate professor at the State University of the Vale do Acaraú, where she is the Dean for Research and Post-graduation. She has experience on taphonomy of vertebrates, and her research focus on education, sedimentary basins, fossils, paleontology of the fossil content of caves and taffonis.