

Brian Fryer (brian.frier@ed.ac.uk.)

Brian Fryer (2014).

Prof. Brian Fryer obtained his B.Sc. degree (1968) from the McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada and Ph.D. degree (1971) from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Boston, Massachusetts, USA. He was awarded the Peacock Medal 2010 from the Mineralogical Association of Canada. Currently, professor in the University of Windsor (Great Lakes Institute for Environmental Research = GLIER), Canada (Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada). He visited the NEG-LABISE in 1984, teaching a short course on rare-earth element geochemistry and multiple applications in geosciences, participating also in a field trip to see Precambrian granitoids of northeastern Brazil.